

Children have a strong sense of self:

- expressing ideas
- responding to ideas of others
- engaging and exploring environment
- cooperate and work together with others
- develop negotiation and sharing skills
- persists when faced with challenges or when first attempts not successful
- being open to challenges and discoveries
- recognising own and others achievements

Children are connected and contribute to their word.

- cooperate with others
- broaden their understanding of the world
- understand different ways of contributing and participating
- listen to others ideas and respect different ways of being and doing.
- use play to investigate, project and explore new ideas.
- participate with others to solve problems and contribute to the group.

Children have strong sense of wellbeing.

- share humour, happiness and satisfaction
- seek out and accept new challenges, new discoveries, celebrate their own and others achievements
- assert capabilities and independence while being aware of others needs and rights.
- demonstrate spatial awareness
- manipulate equipment and tools with competence and skill.

Children are confident and involved learners

- explore their environment
- use reflective thinking to consider why things happen and what can be learnt from experiences
- manipulate objects and experiment with cause and effect.
- create and use representation to record and communicate mathematical ideas and concepts.
- problem solve through investigation
- experience shared learning
- use resources to assemble, take apart, invent and construct

Children are effective communicators

- engage in enjoyable interactions
- contribute their ideas in play and small group discussions.
- interact with others to explore ideas, clarify thinking, negotiate and share.
- demonstrate and increasing understanding of measurement and number using vocabulary to describe size, length, volume, capacity, and names of numbers.
- express feeling and ideas, understand and respect the perspective of others.
- develop an understanding that symbols are a powerful means of communication.